Campbell County Public Library Reopens Buildings

The Campbell County Public Library will reopen its buildings to the public on Monday, Dec. 14. The library has put various safety protocols in place, per the Governor's Healthy at Work guidelines, with the safety of both patrons and staff in mind.

Hours for Cold Spring, Carrico/Fort Thomas and Newport branches are 11 am-7 pm Monday-Friday; 1-5 pm Saturday and Sunday. Hours for the Alexandria Branch are 11 am-7 pm Tuesday-Friday; 11 am-5 pm Saturday; and closed Sunday and Monday.

Safety protocols include a reduced maximum occupancy in the buildings, and a requirement for patrons and staff to wear a face mask that covers their mouth and nose. Plexiglass shields are installed at information and patron services desks. High-touch surfaces such as computer keyboards, door handles and tabletops are disinfected frequently throughout the day.

No fines for overdue materials are being assessed since quarantined items are held for four days before being cleared from patron accounts. Curbside service for quick pick up of library holds will continue to be offered and is encouraged at all branches.

Computer reservations may be made on the library's website or by calling the preferred branch. Printing, scanning, faxing and document shredding services also available. Meeting and study rooms, which are being used to quarantine returned items and store furniture removed to meet social distancing measures, remain unavailable for public use.
