We suggest

STAFF RECOMMENDATIONS: BOOKS ABOUT ARTISTS WE LOVE

The Book of Mistakes* by Corinna Luyken

This book playfully encourages young artists to use their imaginations to create new ideas out of mistakes. Rather than being upset about an accident while drawing, the illustrator/narrator uses her mistakes to tell an ever-changing story.

— Katherine Woolums, children's programmer, Alexandria Branch

Kusama: The Graphic Novel* by Elisa Macellari

I was first introduced to the works of Yayoi Kusama from another book, Yayoi Kusama: To Infinity and Beyond, and from there simply gravitated to her visually minimalist but impactful art style. This graphic novel helps not only showcase her art but also to give insight into how her style formed.

— Katherine Wallace, patron services assistant, Cold Spring Branch

Barely Functional Adult* by Meichi Ng

This book was a great burst of humor for me while the skies were grey and rainy. It is a quick read that you won't want to put down. If you are one of those young adults who knows you should be doing better at this thing we call "adulting," you will find comic artist Meichi Ng's experiences relatable.

— Morgan Lockard-Ellis, adult/teen services librarian, Carrico/Fort Thomas Branch

Wonderstruck* by Brian Selznick

Ben and Rose are two people living 50 years apart. While Ben's story is told only in words, Rose's story is told through pictures. Each person is searching for a missing part of themselves. Their independent stories eventually weave into one beautiful ending. With over 460 pages of original artwork, the book is visually breathtaking.

— Valerie Davis, branch manager, Newport Branch

Tiny Art Show

New this year is the Tiny Art Show. Choose your medium and create a miniature artwork on a 3-by-3-inch canvas. Your creativity may pay off: The canvases will be displayed by age group—adults, teens and children—at the Carrico/Fort Thomas Branch during Art After Hours on Friday, July 29. Event attendees will cast their votes for Best Overall and Best for Summer Reading Theme in each age category. Winners will receive a Michael's gift card!

If interested, make sure to register for a Take & Make bag and submit your creation by 5 pm Tuesday, July 26. There are also four in-person programs divided by age:

- Children: 4 pm Monday, July 18
- Adults: 2 pm & 6:30 pm Thursday, July 21
- Teens: 4 pm Thursday, July 21

All events and Take & Make pickups are held at the Carrico/Fort Thomas Branch.

Join the Friends

The Board of the Friends of the Campbell County Public Library is accepting applications for new members. Applications will be accepted until Wednesday, July 20. You can find the application form online at www.cc-pl.org/friends. Board members will be elected at the annual meeting on Thursday, Aug. 18 at 6:15 pm.

Meet painter Anna Afshar at Art After Hours, continued from the cover

A couple strolls down a rainy city sidewalk, covered by a red umbrella; a woman in a trenchcoat stops to peer through windows as she walks a shaggy dog; people read, work and drink in a cafe. These are examples of moments Anna Afshar dreamily renders in her watercolor paintings.

You can meet Afshar at Art After Hours on Friday, July 29 from 7-9 pm at the Carrico/Fort Thomas Branch. The featured artists work in a range of styles and mediums. Each will be available to discuss their work and items will be available for purchase.

Afshar's childhood in Lithuania and Russia brimmed with trips to galleries, symphony halls and theatres. Despite believing that an artist was always inside her, she started her career as a chemist.

"My son left his paints out one time when he was two years old," Afshar says. "I thought, 'I need to try (painting). I haven't held a brush in many years.' I picked up a brush and I signed up for a class and that's it."

Now a full-time artist based in Indianapolis, Afshar has studied with artists from around the world. She is a signature member of the Watercolor Society of Indiana, Hoosier Salon and Indiana Artist Club.

According to www.annaafsharart.com, Afshar admires paintings that are spontaneous and free. Many of her works capture scenes both from nearby cities and across the globe, from Cincinnati to Chicago and Paris to Florence, Italy.

When she travels, she frequents museums for inspiration and to learn from painting masters. Even a walk in her own neighborhood can jumpstart her imagination for what to paint. Many of her works are plein air, meaning that they are painted outdoors.

"Every time I paint, everything I see is the abstract shapes created by any subject," Afshar says.

"That is what inspires me to paint. It's the abstraction—even a realistic or impressionistic painting is still an abstraction, an arrangement of shapes in a beautiful way"

She expands on the idea by citing Cincinnati's Roebling Bridge. Depending on the time of day and weather, light plays on the bridge's structure, creating new shapes, angles and emotions.

Recently, a woman in a yellow skirt standing on a bridge in Paris caught her eye. She took a few pictures, catching the woman gazing in different directions. Whether it's a dog, flower, person or nature scene, Afshar chooses elements from her surroundings and then composes them into a painting.

Though she also works with oils and acrylics, Afshar originally gravitated toward watercolors because it was readily available and mostly non-toxic. The medium also speaks to her free-spirited nature.

"I really like to let things go and see what happens," Afshar says, later adding that she tries not to overthink her process. "Watercolors speak to my nature, the freedom of it, the immediacy and surprise."

Event attendees may get to see new works: She is planning to travel to Europe ahead of Art After Hours. Hopefully, she says, that will result in new plein air paintings. Either way, Afshar loves connecting with customers and sharing the stories behind individual works.

Make it a Graphic Novel Summer

This summer, consider picking a graphic novel or manga for your poolside read. Each branch has a diverse selection of graphic novels to choose from. From titles that transform classics into comic form to adventure stories to beloved series and even nonfiction, there's something for all interests and ages in this wide-catching genre. Visually and intellectually stimulating, their approachable, fast-paced format is perfect for readers in search of a quick, impactful experience—and anyone participating in this year's Summer Reading program. Our digital catalog also has hundreds of titles to choose from. Download them to read on Libby, a free easy-to-use app that allows users access to online materials on their personal computers, smartphones, e-readers or tablets.

Keep Reading!

We're halfway through Summer Reading! If you find yourself in need of inspiration, the library has several resources sure to help you secure your next read and, in turn, close in on Summer Reading goals for the chance to win prizes.

Fiction fans, look no further than NovelList for your next perfect beach read. Patrons can use their library card to access the database, which gives users book recommendations based on titles and authors they enjoy. NovelList can be accessed at www.cc-pl.org/novelist.

For a more curated experience, check out book lists created by our library staff. Broken down by genre, age and themes, each list includes a variety of handpicked titles. Visit www.cc-pl.org/recommendations to browse topics. Of course, you can also ask our staff for suggestions next time you drop by your favorite branch.

You can also make progress on your Summer Reading logs by requesting a Book Care Package. The service is available for at-home storytimes as well as children and teens of all ages and reading levels. Learn more at www.cc-pl.org/book-care-packages.
